Q: What inspires your Poetical Alphabet creations?

A: My inspiration comes from everywhere and everything around me. Sometimes it's a word that I hear in a song or read in a book that sparks an idea. Other times, it's a color or a shape that I see in nature or in my everyday surroundings. I'm constantly observing the world with an artist's eye, always looking for ways to translate my experiences into visual art.

Q: How do you balance the visual and linguistic elements in your artworks?

A: It's a delicate balance, but it's one that I find incredibly rewarding. I want my artworks to be both visually pleasing and thought-provoking. I spend a lot of time experimenting with different colors, shapes, and textures to create a harmonious composition. At the same time, I carefully consider the typography and the meaning of the words I use. The goal is to create an immersive experience where the visual and linguistic elements complement and enhance each other.

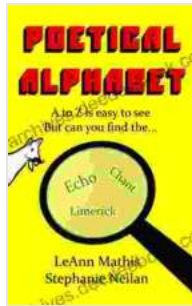

Q: What do you hope audiences take away from your Poetical Alphabet project?

A: Above all, I want to inspire people to appreciate the beauty and power of language. I hope my artworks encourage viewers to think more deeply about the words they use and to recognize the impact that language can have on their own lives and on the world around them.
